

Traineeships

There are two types of traineeships available at this time.

- Commonwealth Government - Boosting Apprenticeship Commencement Incentive
- NSW Government - Fee Free Traineeship initiative

Significant differences

There are significant differences in the make up of the traineeships and it is important to understand which traineeships program is best for your employee and your business.

The Federal Government Boosting Apprenticeships (BAC)

This program is now only available for new workers.

The incentive payments are made to the employer as prescribed in the BAC fact sheet. For more information contact the Australian Business Apprenticeship Centre 1300 652 236.

BAC is not available for any trainee receiving other wage subsidies, such as Supporting Apprentices and Trainees (SAT) or JobKeeper.

The cost of the qualification is paid by the employee or employer (there is no training subsidy).

The learner will need to enrol via our online portal and pay the course fee of $2960 in 4 monthly instalments.

The employee has up to 2 years to complete the CPP41419 Certificate IV in Real Estate Practice.

REINSW will support the trainee in the same manner as we do all our learners.

NSW Government – Fee Free Traineeship Initiative

This initiative is available to new employees (less than 3 months employment for full time employment and 6 months for part time employment).

The incentive payment up to $4000 is paid in 2 instalments, at commencement and a final payment on completion.

The cost of the qualification is covered by NSW Smart and Skilled funding (eligibility criteria apply) so the employee or employer does not have to pay any fees for their qualification. www.vet.nsw.gov.au

The employee has up to 2 years to complete the CPP41419 Certificate IV in Real Estate Practice, or 1 year for the CPP31519 Certificate III in Real Estate Practice.

REINSW has a dedicated support program for these trainees, with regular contact to ensure course progress.
